

Mathematics teacher education: trends across twelve African counties.

Chapter 12: Mathematics teacher education in Zimbabwe.

Introduction

When Zimbabwe gained her independence in 1980 the new government took aggressive and positive steps to redress historical imbalances. The education sector was democratised. Access and provision of education became available to the majority of school going age children in the country. All teacher education institutions became associate colleges of the University of Zimbabwe.....